Overview

The University of Kentucky Comprehensive Epilepsy Center is pleased to host the Fourth Annual Epilepsy Symposium exploring the latest advances in epilepsy treatment and management. An expert panel of speakers will share their knowledge and answer questions. This symposium will provide a foundation for managing patients with epilepsy in either a community or health-system setting and assist in making appropriate referrals to epilepsy centers.

Target Audience

Physicians, physician assistants, nurse practitioners, nurses, emergency medical technicians, EEG technicians, residents, fellows and students

Objectives

- Identify appropriate patients and criteria for referral to a Level-4 epilepsy center.
- Describe new surgical therapies for the treatment of epilepsy.
- Describe new medical therapies for the treatment of epilepsy.
- Recognize special considerations when treating women with epilepsy.
- Explain what SUDEP is and identify risk factors.

Registration

Physician: $50
Nurse or other health care professional: $30
Residents, Fellows, Students, UK Technicians, and EpiC members: No charge

The registration fee includes tuition, continental breakfast, lunch, and continuing education credit.

Registration is required online at <http://www.cecentral.com/live/9790>.
